Curtis who will be at home informally Tuesday afternoon, have asked the assistance of the wives of the members of the supreme court, and also, Mrs. Samuel Forter, of Marysville, Mrs. J. K. Hudson of Kansas City, Mrs. David W. Mulvane, Mrs. John R. Mulvane, Mrs. John T. Chaney, Mrs. Geo. Clark, Mrs. David Palmer and Miss Lucy Kingman.

The hours are from 3 to 6 o'clock. Mrs. Curtis and Miss Curtis extend a cordial invitation to the wives of legislators and other out-of-town women, as well as to their Topeka friends to call. No formal invitations are issued.

Mrs. Curtis and Miss Curtis will be at home every Tuesday afternoon durling the month of February.

For a long period of years it has been the custom of Mrs. DeWitte C. Nellis to entertain at a reception the afternoon following Kansas day. The event takes on special importance and interest on alternate years when the legislature is in session, when all the state officers are in Topeka, and the governor's wife and former governors' wives are asked as guests of honor.

The event of social interest which marked the close of a memorable week for many Kansas women, was Mrs. Nellis' reception Saturday afternoon. It was the scene of the forgathering of many out of town women, Topeka society and club women of prominence, and the women of official circles of the present, and some of those of past regimes.

Those who were invited to stand in line with Mrs. Nellis: Mrs. G. W. Glick, Mrs. Willis Bailey, Mrs. S. J. Crawford. Mrs. John P. St. John, Mrs. W. E. Stanley, Mrs. E. W. Hoch, Mrs. John A. Martin, Mrs. L. U. Humphrey, Mrs. W. R. Stubbs and Mrs. George H. Hodges. Not all of the wives of former governors were able to be present.

Mrs. Nellis was gowned in heliotrope chiffon over pink silk. Mrs. Glick

Mrs. Nellis was gowned in heliotrope chiffon over pink silk. Mrs. Glick wore a soft dove grey wool, embroidered in the same color, and was made with a narrow yoke of cream lace with a fall of lace down the front of the bodice. Mrs. Balley wore a handsome toilette of apricot satin, combined with lace. Mrs. Hoch was gowned in lavender brocaded chiffon velvet. In the back of the gown a panel of black and white net and lace joined the circular flounces of velvet which completed the skirt. Mrs. Capper wore a handsome white net and lace joined the circular flounces of velvet which completed the skirt. Mrs. Capper wore a handsome gown of bronze crepe meteor, draped with net of the same shade embroidered in gold. The skirt was made with flounces of the embroidered net, and the surplice bodice was draped in the gold lace.

Miss Dollie Curtis presented the callers to the hostess. She wore taupe satin with yoke and sleeves of net and lace. Mrs. Bennett R. Wheeler, who stood beside Mrs. Glick in the receiving line, was gowned in black velvet trimmed with black fur.

The house was lighted with red tapers set in crystal candlesticks. Red flowers were used in the receiving room and library. In the dining room, a large bouquet of red carnations stood in the center of the table, and strands of red tulle were draped from the chandelier to the corners of the table. The flowers were also used on the mantel.

Balmacaans..$9.00 Mackinaws...$4.75

This means more for your money in a coat than the same money ever purchased-more quality, more style, more value.

Balmacaans are the very latest word in overcoats—possess-ing comfort, smartness and warmth. At our price of $2.00 you can hardly afford to pass up the opportunity to acquire one of these truly good coats.

Then we have a dandy line of Mackinaws—those warm, smart jackets the young chaps appre-ciate. Our price of $4.75 is just a fraction of their real value.

the theme of the play was woven around the idea of the present to the active chapter.

The stage was arranged with footings, and in the center was a prayer rug. On the stage was a seraglio, only the eastern order was a reversed, and the occupants were husbands instead of wives. All of them were baid, and in accordance with the imperial decree, an effort was made to remedy the fault. A bottle of hair tonic was accidentally spilled onto the rug. A little later the rug had grown a full hair mattress, which was presented with due cremony. A full orchestra, led by Miss Helen Estey, furnished music for the show. The costumes were handsome, of genuine Japanese style and material. The presentation of the play was in charge of Mrs. Justice and Mrs. Henry F. Western Sorosis had a guest day meeting Saturday at the home of Mrs. F. W. Watson, 401 Topeka avenue. Guest day affairs of Sorosis are among the pleasurable events of the club season every year. A number of visiting women in Topeka were asked as guests to the meeting, and a large number of Topeka friends were also in the company.

It is the practice of the Sorosis club to have one paper read at each meeting. Thus each member writes a paper once in two or three years, choosing her own subject and developing it as she pleases. Miss Graham read a paper at Sorosis guest day meeting entitled "Moving Into the King Row." She said, "Women have been gradually admitted to the world's board—ulayed part way across and around the border. More recently women have been moved swiftly across the checkerboard of life toward the long time guarded king row and there crowned with a crown of double service of fullest opportunity and special privilege. Now we may move backwards or forwards. All the world wonders what women will do. All the modorn prophets have been consulted as to the result of woman's entrance into the world's councils.
